

WAUSAU IS EASY FOR RHINELANDER

Bellic's Warriors Humiliate
The Stars By A Score
Of 15 To 3, Sunday

The Wausau Stars, the much touted base ball aggregation of youngsters, performed miserably at the Fair grounds last Sunday, and were decisively defeated by Manager Bellic's classy band of speed boys by the score of 15 to 3 in an almost featureless game of seven innings. For only one of the seven innings did the Stars seem to shine with any degree of brilliancy, for during the remainder of the contest, the locals merely toyed with the visitors, leaving an appendage of dimness behind, that in some respects resembled the late lamented comet of Mr. Halley. Despite a heavy downpour of rain, throughout the progress of the game, almost three hundred of the "faithful" came out to witness the exhibition, which was a source of considerable congratulation to the management, since the day was a boon to the farmer, but disastrous for base ball.

The reported prowess of Bellic's veterans and bolts has aroused unusual interest in base ball for this early season and were it not for the rain, a record breaking crowd would have been present, showing that the true "fan" cares not one, little, bit for inclemency of weather conditions at a time when his favorite pastime is on parade. George Deakin was selected to perform in the pitcher's box and distinguished himself by whiffing two less than an even dozen of his infantile opposition, while Catcher Post's unerring pegs to the bags snuffed out the lives of a trio of budding aspirants for base stealing honors. The nicest thing that can be said for the Stars, is the fact that they had unusually neat and pretty suits, in striking contrast to the tattered, battle scarred uniforms worn by the victors.

A pair of difficult double plays of the rapid transit variety, a la Tinker, Evers and Chance, along with a phenomenal one handed stop of Jastrum at third, were the only redeeming features of an otherwise uninteresting game. Umpire Geo. Roller kept the game moving from start to finish and appeared to possess the same good judgement in his decisions as that which earned him high praises from all sides last season.

TO PAY TRIBUTE TO NATION'S DEAD

Memorial Day Will Be Commemorated With Appropriate Exercises

"In decorating the graves of the dead and in honoring the living soldiers of '61, the whole nation renews yearly the inspirations of patriotism. This year there are still in the land of the living and the country they saved more than half a million of the heroic "boys" of '61, and we are just coming to see that they really were boys, and boys well worth remembering—those who have answered the last roll call and those who are yet with us in the battles of peace."

In Rhineland, as in years past, Memorial Day, Tuesday, May 30th, will be commemorated with fitting exercises. Co. L will have charge of the observance and the usual program has been arranged for the occasion.

At 9:15 a. m. the parade will form at the Armory and proceed to Forest Home cemetery. The procession will be headed by the Military band followed by Co. L and members of the G. A. R. in carriages. All lodges and school children in the city are also requested to participate. The line of march will be from Armory north to Rives Street, west to Frown Street south on Brown Street to Anderson Street, thence to Forest Home cemetery. There the following program will be conducted:

Music—Military Band.
Invocation—Rev. Clemens.
Reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address—Jeff Redfield.
Decorating of graves of Civil War heroes and departed members of Co. L.
Firing of salutes over graves, taps to be sounded after each volley.
Music—Military Band.
All who desire to donate flowers are requested to leave them at the Armory before 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

EXPECT NEW FARMERS

Residents Of Trempealeau County
May Locate In This Section

Between fifteen and twenty-five residents of Trempealeau county are expected to arrive in this city soon for the purpose of looking over lands in the county owned by C. P. Crosby with the intention of purchasing. Should deals be closed the buyers will with their families locate on the lands and become permanent farmers.

Al. Hafner returned Saturday from Trempealeau county where he spent a number of days inspecting these prospective settlers in the lands of Oneida county. They all appeared much elated over the descriptions of this country as given by Mr. Hafner and informed him that they would come here at the earliest date possible for a personal inspection. Some of these people are owners of farms in their own section but are desirous of finding new locations.

GETS POSITION AT WAUSAU

Henry Knapp of Rhineland has accepted a position as foreman of the Wausau Street Railway company. Mr. Knapp was a resident of Rhineland for twenty years, and for some time was a member of the Oneida County Board of Supervisors. He expects to move his family here June first.—Wausau Record-Herald.

Mr. Knapp spent yesterday in the city with his family. He has entered in a year's contract with the street railway company and likes his position very much.

GRADUATION DAY IS DRAWING NEAR

Great Preparations Are Being Made At High School For Commencement

The commencement season of the Rhineland High school is near at hand, and already the spirit of graduation is being felt.

This year Rev. J. M. Johnson will deliver the baccalaureate sermon at the Episcopal church. This will be given Sunday evening June 4, and will be an interesting address.

The Senior class play entitled, "The Secretary Pro Tem," is already well underway and will be presented at the Opera House, Wednesday evening, June 7th. The play is a lively and interesting sketch, well adapted to amateurs. It will interest all.

Class Day exercises will be held at the Opera House Thursday afternoon June 8th. On this occasion the class makes a pilgrimage to the gods of Olympus to learn what the future holds in store for them.

The regular commencement exercises will be held Thursday evening June 8th, at the Opera House. One of the features of the program will be a debate on woman suffrage, two boys against two of the girls. The orations also will prove interesting.

The great event of the week will be a lecture on Friday evening by Dr. P. P. Claxton of the University of Tennessee. Dr. Claxton speaks at four different commencement occasions, namely at Antigo, Rhineland, Oconto, and Fort Atkinson. He is an eloquent speaker and the burden of his theme will be to teach peace. The great question of universal peace is now nation wide and is heard on every side. Dr. Claxton is one of the most noted speakers on this subject, and has done much toward showing the nation why the question is one of such great importance.

Conditions would indicate that President Diaz is near the end of his rule. The insurrectos are advancing on Mexico and lawlessness is running riot in the capital city.

While perhaps there will be laws passed at Madison that may be of a doubtful nature, it is practically certain that many laws will be passed there at the present session of the legislature which will safeguard the people's rights.

For the benefit of the general public, we wish to say that the Electric Light appraisal will be made as soon as state engineers can get here to do the work. The city asked for the investigation and it will be had as soon as the Railroad Commission can get to it. Rhinelander will have an investigation.

Will Brown Bros. get their lights for half what other people pay after the commission comes? It remains to be seen.

There seems little excuse for the added expense to the city and much trouble to the merchants of the inventory of store stocks for the assessment. No man doubts that the small property owners and small merchants pay their full share of the tax and then some. In all the agitation over unequal taxation it is agreed that the big concern is the one that escapes full assessment. We shall have more to say on this subject next week.

In a debate in Milwaukee the other night, Alderman Carney, often called Slippery Joe, rallied about the present administration of that city. His statements were indirect and when the speech was completed, it was admitted that "Slippery Joe" had proved nothing but had been vague and had played the cheap politician who tried to astir up the flame of prejudice.

His posing as a reformer is about as ludicrous as a recent speech before our county board "on poor little newspapers as formers of trusts."

CLOSING SMALL SCHOOLS
The tendency to abolish small schools by law is growing rapidly. Maine has joined the procession. When a school has had an average attendance of eight or less for a year the board of education of that town cannot open the school the next year unless an article is inserted in the town meeting warrant and the town votes to instruct the school board to open the school regardless of the number of pupils in attendance.

Buffalo Express states clearly and concisely the situation in respect to the navy, which is also the situation in respect to the army:
"We shall have no war with Japan unless we ourselves become the aggressors, and we shall increase the temptation to become aggressive if we start to build up a big army under the delusion that Japan is ready to spring upon us at any minute." If we have another war it will be our jingo's, not the weakness of our little standing army, that will bring it on.

RECALL FOR JUDICIARY
As the cloud clears away it is realized that the supreme court of the U. S. in the Standard Oil case did not stop at deciding for the trusts but even reached over and legislated for them. The court wrote into the law things that were never intended when the bill was passed so that no longer will trusts be compelled to prove that they do not exist but simply that they are "good" trusts.

We agree with Governor Osborne of Michigan that the recall is needed in no department of the government more than in the judicial department of course properly safeguarded, but should apply to the judiciary just the same.

"In a republic the will of the people should be the law of the land."

POWER OF SUPREME COURT

The Sherman law says restraint of trade is unlawful. The supreme court, Justice Harlan dissenting, says "unreasonable restraint of trade is unlawful," and this gives it into the power of the judges to help out the trusts whenever they happen to be so minded. Justice Harlan has the courage to dissent and the ability to see that this may prove an instrument of peril to our country. He says "It makes it possible for the supreme court to change the constitution and to change the statute laws." Is it possible that congress is not henceforth to be the sole law-making power?—Waukesha Freeman, Progressive Rep.

INFLUENCE OF SCHOOL ON FARM

It through the Central West where the rural school teaches agriculture, the farm shows the value of the new teaching.

In thousands of homes the boys are testing the corn for planting for their fathers, and they are testing the cow by the Babcock test apparatus.

Not only so, but hired men are learning to do both from the boys who learn it in school.

Both boys and hired men are also learning to judge corn and to judge farm stock.

Oneida County Training School is making rapid strides for Oneida County in educating its students who are to become rural school teachers along this line. Neither does the school stop with educating the teachers but it is assisting and educating the farmers.

OUTRAGES IN ALASKA

The New York World publishes an amazing article directed against the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate in Alaska.

It charges that unarmed workmen, laying railroad tracks for a rival road in Keystone canyon, were shot down in cold blood.

It charges that when the men who did the shooting were arrested the jury was bribed, witnesses were bribed, and that the pull of the Guggenheim-Morgan outfit is strong enough in Washington to secure the discharge of United States officials who tried to prosecute the murderers.

United States Judge T. R. Lyons, in Alaska, was attorney for the Guggenheims before he was selected by Attorney General Wickersham and appointed by Taft to sit on the federal bench for life.

Edward C. Hasey was tried for killing one of the workmen of the opposition company as he was going to work, and it was charged that he was under orders from George Hazlett, who in turn was held to be under orders of the highest officers of the Copper River Railway Co., a subsidiary of the Alaska syndicate.

The paper also accuses the Taft administration of resorting to doubtful methods to aid and abet the Guggenheims in their corruption.

Among the Cannibals.
"In my most successful novel," said Upton Sinclair, at a vegetarian banquet in New York, "I aimed at the public's heart and hit it with my best talk, in the stomach."
"I was rather like the Bangala misadventurer," who said:
"I failed, alas, to bring tears to those cannibal's eyes, but at least I made their mouths water."

PALM BEACH BIG GAMBLING RESORT

O. A. Hilgerman Says One Woman Ends Life After Losing Fortune At Tables

That gambling on an enormous scale is carried on unrestricted in the big hotels at Palm Beach, Fla., is substantiated by the statement of O. A. Hilgerman who declares that during his stay in the famous resort city one woman ended her life after she had lost $40,000 on the gaming table in the Ponce de Leon Hotel. He says that at the same time a well known gambler is alleged to have parted with $400,000 in the same resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilgerman spent three weeks at Miami and enjoyed their sojourn immensely. While there they experienced the thrills of shark fishing and made a trip to "Alligator John's" big alligator ranch located forty miles from the city. One of the features of the farm is a monster sea cow that weighs over one and a half tons.

The lands in the vicinity of Miami, Mr. Hilgerman says are poor for agricultural purposes. They are known as the everglades and consist chiefly of rock covered with fine white sand. These lands are sold to innocent strangers who are generally given the impression that the soil possesses the rare productive qualities.

Previous to visiting Miami Mr. and Mrs. Hilgerman spent two weeks at Jacksonville and St. Augustine, both age to dissent and the ability to see that this may prove an instrument of peril to our country. He says "It makes it possible for the supreme court to change the constitution and to change the statute laws." Is it possible that congress is not henceforth to be the sole law-making power?—Waukesha Freeman, Progressive Rep.

Speaking of the Havana hotels, Mr. Hilgerman says that the meals are excellent but the beds are very uncomfortable, consisting of hard iron slats with none too soft mattresses. All American guests complain of the beds.

Havana is a good business city and many Americans conduct establishments there. Mr. Hilgerman states that while the saloons are run wide open day and night he considers it a curious fact that he failed to see one intoxicated man during his entire stay in the city.

A Havana funeral procession, especially among the wealthy class, has all the aspect of a circus parade rather than the sombre affair it is. According to Mr. Hilgerman, the gaudy vehicle which conveys the body of the corpse to its final resting place is drawn by eight or ten horses in elegant harness and trappings and all the carriages in line are brilliantly decorated. Everything which might stand as a mark of mourning for the departed is missing. There are positively no demonstrations of sorrow.

The next stop of the tourists after leaving Havana was the Isle of Pines, where they passed two weeks. They made a trip by steamer around the island which gave them a splendid idea of the country. A railroad is being built from the island to Key West. This line extends over the water and is a wonderful feat of engineering, representing an expenditure of over $40,000,000.

On their way home Mr. and Mrs. Hilgerman visited several of the principal cities in the south. While at Atlanta, Ga., Mrs. Hilgerman called on Dr. and Mrs. S. R. Stone and found them well and contented with their southern home. Both wished to be remembered to their Rhinelander friends. The doctor has acquired a profitable practice at Atlanta and has an elegant suite of offices in the Candler building.

Until about three weeks ago the bride was employed as saleslady at the Golden Dry Goods Co.'s store, but resigned her position for the purpose, so she informed her friends, of making a six weeks tour in the West. The news of her marriage to Mr. Brown comes as a surprise. She was highly regarded here.

THE DOG NUISANCE

Curs Without Their Taxes Paid Should Be Destroyed

One man estimates that there are one thousand dogs in Rhinelander. When he paid the tax on his dog late Tuesday afternoon City Clerk Swedberg handed him tag No. 68. This number signified that up to that time just sixty-eight dogs had had their licenses paid. Now the question which puzzles this certain man is—who are the owners of the other nine hundred and more canines in the city and why are they permitted to run at large without tags? If a man doesn't care enough for his dog to pay the annual tax then the animal should be destroyed instead of being allowed to trot about as a public nuisance.

About ten years ago he was employed as clerk at the Alpine and is therefore not a stranger in Rhinelander.

Mr. McGowan and Mrs. L. Cleary, who have conducted the Alpine ever since the hotel was built, will retire from active life in July. They will continue to make this city their home and Mr. McGowan will devote the greater share of his time to his farm duties.

Mr. Chafee in former years conducted the Rapids House and hotel routine is by no means new to him. He will place a competent manager in supervision of the Rhinelander.

NEW STUGENTS AT TRAINING SCHOOL

Institution Is Flourishing And Much Effective Work Is Being Done

A number of teachers whose term of school has expired, have entered the Training School for further training. The law permits the county superintendent to renew a teacher's certificate, provided the teacher has studied in a professional school for at least six weeks and has obtained as a result of such study, standings in at least two subjects belonging to the next higher certificate. Among those who enrolled are the following:

Hannah Anderson, Robbins.

Lillian Buslett, Rhinelander.

Edna Bock, Rhinelander.

Mary Huber, Rhinelander.

Elizabeth Knapp, Robbins.

Gertrude Griffin, Robbins.

May Bonnie, Rhinelander.

Teachers working for a second grade certificate are able to do the work in a thoroughly satisfactory manner and at the same time have the whole summer for their own use, beside saving a considerable sum of money. The people of the county are realizing more and more the great value of the Training School for the preparation of teachers. A careful examination of the course of study of this school, comparing it with the elementary course of State Normal schools reveals the fact that graduates of Training schools have done more professional study than elementary graduates. In fact, the elementary course of State Normal schools has proven so inadequate and unsatisfactory to the Board of Regents that they decided that no more elementary certificates shall be issued by Normal schools, except River Falls after July 1910, except to those students who were taking the course then.

Hereafter students of Normal schools must attend two years. If High school graduates or four years, if not High school graduates, before they can get any documents which have certificate value, and these certificates are good for life.

Training Schools, on the other hand have proven so satisfactory that their number is constantly growing. Within the last three months new schools of this kind have been organized in Kenosha, Rock and Taylor counties, and there are before the present legislature bills increasing the number of Training Schools from 25 to 50 and increasing the value of diplomas, making them 5 year certificates, instead of three years as now. This shows that the state at large is satisfied with the results obtained by these schools.

Arrangements are under way for the first commencement exercises of the school. The program will be given June 29th and will include an address to be delivered by some prominent educator.

The class is composed of the following:

Cora Hagan, Rhinelander.

Minocqua Clawson, Minocqua.

Hope Noble, Minocqua.

Stena Johnson, Three Lakes.

Maria Lavery, Three Lakes.

Marion Fenton, Rhinelander.

On Tuesday afternoon, June 13, there will be a business meeting and dinner extended to the staff of the Wausau agency of the Prudential Life Insurance company, and a few invited guests, by the company, at the St. James parlors. T. L. Givney is the superintendent in this city.—Wausau Record-Herald.

When a Store Is Always Busy "Doing Business" is the Trade Phrase---Buying Opportunities Seek It.

We are "doing business" and because of this fact we are in a position to buy in tremendous quantities; and because we have a recognized and continuous outlet many unusual buying opportunities sought us—buying opportunities which any store with years of successful merchandising at its credit would be eager to take advantage of. In fact, they were buying opportunities of such character that they will not only establish new selling records, but will establish an unapproachable new low price record. Its just such conditions, through "Keeping faith with the people," that some visitors have called our establishment a bee hive. Not a bad phrase. For bees are "busy" sure enough and they have system, too. They're always "doing" something. So are we. We're giving you the most and best always for the least money.

POSTAL BANK TO OPEN ON JUNE 12

Assistant Postmaster Reed Gives Out Information For The Public

Advises received Saturday from Washington by the Rhinelander post-office are to the effect that the new postal savings bank will be opened for business in this city, Monday June 12.

Richard Reed, assistant postmaster, gives out the following information regarding the bank for the benefit of the public:

The postal savings system is established for the purpose of providing facilities for depositing savings at interest with the security of the United States government for repayment.

Accounts may be opened and deposits made by any person of the age of 10 years or over in his or her own name and by a married woman in her own name and free from any interference or control by her husband. No person can have more than one account at any time.

No person may open a postal-savings account at any post office who is not a patron of that office.

All accounts must be opened in person by the depositor or his authorized representative. After opening an account a depositor may forward subsequent deposits to the post office by mail.

Deposits will be accepted only from individuals, and no account will be opened in the name of any corporation, association, society, firm, or partnership, or in the names of two or more persons jointly.

No account will be opened in the name of one person in trust for or on behalf of another person or persons.

Deposits are evidenced by postal-savings certificates issued in fixed denominations of $1, $2, $5, $10, $20, $50, and $100, each bearing the name of the depositor, the number of his account, the date of issue, the name of the depository office, and the date on which interest begins. The postmaster or his representative will make out a duplicate of each certificate issued, which the depositor will be required to sign and which the postmaster will retain in his records.

No account may be opened for less than $1, nor will fractions of a dollar be accepted for deposit.

No person is permitted to deposit more than $100 in any one calendar month nor to have a total balance to his credit at one time of more than $500 exclusive of accumulated interest.

Savings certificates can not be transferred or negotiated and will be payable only to the person to whom issued.

Interest will be allowed on all deposits at the rate of 2 per cent per annum, computed on each savings certificate separately, and payable annually. No interest will be paid on money which remains on deposits for a fraction of a year only.

Deposits will bear interest from the 1st day of the month next following that in which deposited.

Interest will continue to accrue on a savings certificate as long as it remains outstanding, certificates being valid until paid, without limitation as to time.

Compound interest is not allowed on an outstanding certificate, but a depositor may withdraw interest payable and include it in a new deposit which will bear interest at the regular rate.

A depositor may at any time withdraw the whole or any part of his deposits with his credit with any interest payable by surrendering savings certificates, properly indorsed, for the amount desired.

FIFTY YEARS AGO THIS 30TH OF MAY

By JAMES A. EDGERTON. (Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.)

MEMORIAL day, 1911, is rendered notable by the fact that this year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the beginning of the civil war. On May 30, 1861, war actually had begun, although no great battle had been fought. It was not till nearly two months later that the first Bull Run opened the eyes of the north to the magnitude of the impending struggle. Prior to that time most northern people seemed to think that the contest would be over in ninety days and that all a Federal army had to do to take Richmond was to march in some morning before breakfast when Davis and Lee were not looking.

On May 30 both sides were making ready, but did not realize how big an affair they had on hand. Sumter had been fired on. Union troops had been shot down in Baltimore, blood had been shed in St. Louis, and Colonel

GENERAL NATHANIEL LYON, WHO CAPTURED CAMP JACKSON AND OTHER PROMPT OPERATIONS EARLY IN 1861. KILLED AT THE BATTLE OF WILSON CREEK, AUG. 10, 1861.

Ellsworth had lost his life at Alexandria. All of these events had been like electric shocks in stirring the north and like magnetic currents in uniting it. Lincoln's call for 75,000 men had been answered by an offer of many times that number, and his subsequent call for 42,000 had been filled promptly, as had also his order to increase the standing army by 22,714. States were clamoring to supply more than their quota, extra troops were being offered from every side, and Lincoln, after his big hearted habit, was listening to the appeals and bringing in regiments here and there above the quota. This process continued until by July there were more than 300,000 enlisted. So far as men were concerned the administration was suffering from an embarrassment of riches. That end of it was easy. The hard task was to arm, drill and provision the men offered. It was on April 15, just after the fall of Sumter, that the president had made his first call and May 8 when he had issued the second. Yet several governors met at Cleveland and on May 6 asked permission to furnish more troops. The country was on fire with enthusiasm and was clamoring for the administration to do something. Not only were soldiers being offered, but money. The first gun that fired on Fort Sumter hurled a shot which ultimately destroyed the Southern Confederacy.

The south was not less active than was the north. Only a few days before May 30 Virginia had definitely cast in her lot with the gulf states, and the whole eleven commonwealths that were to make up the Confederate States of America had taken their stand. The peace advocates were quieted. Both sides realized at last that the clash must come. The issue was drawn, the lists made up, and all that awaited was the trial by force. The future campaign had begun to assume nebulous form. The cry of "On to Richmond" had been started by Greeley and others. Fifteen thousand Pennsylvania troops were marching in the direction of Harpers Ferry, where a number of Confederates—no body then knew just how many—were massed. General Benjamin P. Butler had first been put in command at Baltimore, through which he had soon made it eminently safe for Union troops to pass, and was then in command at Fortress Monroe. Alexandria and Arlington were in the hands of Federal troops, an expedition had pushed up the James river, with a base at Newport News, and another force had started a bombardment at Aquia creek.

Just about May 30 news came that the enemy was establishing a base at Manassas, which was altogether the most fatal item of all, but Washington was still in blissful ignorance of this. Bull Run being seven weeks away.

In the west three regiments had crossed the Ohio river at Marietta, Belknap and Wheeling, had taken Parkersburg and were then concentrating on Grafton. General George B. McClellan was in command and had issued a proclamation advising the West Virginians to break away, as they subsequently did. There was also activity in Missouri, where Captain Nathaniel Lyon was temporarily in charge. Governor Claiborne F. Jackson and many more officials and citizens were determined that Missouri should go out of the Union. Frank

P. Blair, Captain Lyon and others were just as decided that she should remain under the stars and stripes. Shortly before May 30 Lyon had captured Camp Jackson, in the outskirts of St. Louis, and had been promoted to brigadier general therefor. Through the vigorous efforts of these two men and their coworkers Missouri was saved to the north, which meant that Kentucky would also remain loyal. It may well be said that this one victory was a turning point in the war. With the border states against the north there might have been a different outcome.

His friends believed that had Lyon lived he would have proved one of the ablest generals on the Union side. Even as it was he rendered a service to his country that no one now can fully measure. The service stands. The promise was ended by his tragic death at the battle of Wilson Creek, in southwest Missouri, three months later.

On May 30, 1861, Ulysses S. Grant was helping the adjutant general of Illinois, mustering in regiments and making out forms in the outer office. Six days earlier he had written to Washington tendering his services to the government and modestly suggesting that he thought himself competent to command a regiment. A few weeks earlier he had declined the captaincy of a Galena company, asserting that he had been a captain in the regular army and was entitled to a colonelcy. Sherman, Grant's great lieutenant, had beaten his future chief into the service.

Fifty years ago Senator Stephen A. Douglas, after making a gallant appeal for the Union, was stricken with a mortal illness. On May 30 his life was despaired of, and his death followed on June 3. However we may regard Douglas' previous career, his course after Lincoln's inauguration was altogether admirable and atoned for much.

Memorial day was not celebrated until 1868. The "times that tried men's souls" were over. Then the survivors of the war outnumbered the dead. Today the reverse is true, and the graves to be decorated far outnumber the living soldiers left to decorate them. How long will it be until not one is left and the flowers will be scattered only by the children and grandchildren of the "boys who wore the blue?"

FARMER'S IDEA OF TRADING AT HOME

McNaughton Man Asks Why Should Merchants Expect Farmers' Business

Editor New North:—

The farmers are frequently lectured by the New North for buying goods from mail order houses and now a Rhinelander seed dealer gives us a scolding because we buy seeds from dealers who prefer to sell direct to the grower, thereby cutting out the middleman's profit.

The argument is set forth that the local dealers give the farmers time to pay for their goods which the mail order houses do not, and that the local dealers buy our produce which puts us under obligation to buy of them in return.

This is all very good as far as it goes, and in a general way will say that I believe it is the right thing to patronize our home merchants when we can do as well by doing so. It is not enough for us to be told we are not acting fairly when we buy away from home. The local dealer must show us he can, and does sell the same goods for the same money.

This Rhinelander seed dealer says his seeds are guaranteed but those from the mail order houses are not. This is a great bluff. What guarantee does he give? Simply that his seeds have been tested and have a certain percentage of germination and are a certain per cent pure. The mail order houses give the same guarantee.

This spring I have spent twenty-seven dollars for seeds. All of this has been spent in Rhinelander and neighboring villages. I find in comparing prices with those of the mail order houses that I could have bought of the latter and paid freight and then saved about six dollars. I have, therefore, paid six dollars tribute money to the local dealers.

If our local dealers give us credit it is because they want the trade, and they get a larger profit by selling on time. We then practically pay interest on the goods we buy on credit.

Business is not sentiment. People who are doing business under a competitive system should recognize the right of others to buy and sell on the same basis they do themselves. That is, to buy in the cheapest market and sell in the highest.

Our local merchants say they cannot sell for the same price that goods can be bought for in the great commercial centers, as they do not have the volume of trade and have higher freight rates.

This is all true. On the other hand we cannot raise our produce quite so cheaply as farmers can in older settled parts of the country. Our lands are cheaper and probably will average just as good yields, but it must be borne in mind that we are farming small tracts of land, full of stumps and roots and doing much of the work by hand that is done by machinery in the older farming districts.

When we take produce to the stores in Rhinelander, or elsewhere to sell, the merchant puts the price upon it and usually says "I can lay it down" for so much. Then when we buy of them why is it such an offense to say "We can lay your goods down for so much and can't give any more?" What is sauce for the goose ought to be sauce for the gander.

Rhinelander is not a good market town and will not be until buyers come in there who do not expect to sell goods in return.

It never was and never will be a satisfactory way of doing business for either merchant or farmer to exchange produce for merchandise.

The merchant's retail trade is limited and he can handle only a small quantity of farm produce, so when he gets "stocked up" he can buy no more. If the merchant can't take the produce the farmer is doomed to suffer a loss. If the farmer can't give the merchant all his trade then the latter is sore.

A farmer may take ever so many potatoes into any small village in the central part of this state and he knows he is going to sell them for cash to men not interested in mercantile trade. The merchant knowing he does not have to take produce to square up with the farmer, sells in close competition with the mail order houses and farmer and merchant are better satisfied.

Rhinelander and the villages about have consumed more than has been grown in this county and we have to submit to the system of bartering until produce is raised in quantities to ship and farmer and merchant should both have a little more forbearance.

When a farmer drives into Rhinelander he gets the impression that the merchants are not soliciting his trade. One will look in vain for a place to tie his team. We can pardon the pride the business men have in keeping their streets neat and tidy and certainly a great array of hitching posts are not ornamental. However, a well secured ring in the curb stone would not appear bad and would give a farmer a safe place to stand his team when doing his trading.

It has been the general impression that the business men of Rhinelander have been satisfied with the city trade and that the little trade that would come from such a sparsely settled country would not be worth catering to.

The business men of Rhinelander and of this county in general have done very little to develop the country. Step out of Rhinelander in almost any direction and you are in a country that is yet occupied almost entirely by the wolf and the deer.

The business men of Rhinelander should have foreseen the finish of the lumber business and put forth an effort to have colonized the country and by doing so would have prevented the state from getting possession of many valuable pieces of farm land that is now withheld from settlement.

GEO. H. DAWES.

FLASHES FROM THE HEADLIGHT

Bits of News Pertaining To The Soo and Northwestern Railroads

The Northwestern railway company has at last complied with the wishes of the traveling public in instituting better train service on the Ashland division between Appleton and Antigo. Beginning next Sunday, train No. 1, which now runs between Milwaukee and Appleton Junction, arriving at that station at 11:35 a. m. will run through to Antigo. Returning the train will reach Appleton Jct. at 9:45 p. m. With this new service in effect people will be able to leave Appleton in the forenoon, go to either Antigo or Wausau, transact their business and return in the evening. Under the conditions now it takes practically an entire day to make the trip. Perhaps in time the new service may be extended to Rhinelander.

Train 111, the Northwestern north bound passenger, was delayed in this city about thirty-five minutes Monday morning owing to a hot box.

Hervey Johnson and Howard Dawson, two Rhinelander boys who have been working out of Stevens Point on the Soo line Chicago division, will brake during the present season on ore runs between Ironwood and Ashland.

The fishing season which begins today will mean a big increase in the passenger business of the railroads. From now on there will be a heavy travel among fishermen between Chicago and the lakes north of here on the Northwestern line. There are also some well stocked lakes and streams along the Soo line.

It is reported that during an unfriendly encounter between two or three railroad men in the Soo yards Monday, one of the participants was hit on the head with a large iron nut. The victim, so the story runs, was obliged to have his scalp dressed by a physician at Gladstone. No arrests were made.

Geo. Schoepke, bridge foreman for the Northwestern, spent Sunday at his home at Antigo. Mr. Schoepke is superintending the work of remodeling the Northwestern bridge across the Wisconsin river here.

Parlor car fares on all the roads in the West are to be raised according to reports emanating from railway circles, the increases to go into effect June 17. The increases will be on an average of from 15 to 50 per cent. Thus while now a charge of 35 cents is made for a seat in the parlor car the charge after June 17 will be 50 cents and the rate will be raised proportionately to all points.

DERIVATION OF NAMES

U. S. Issues Book On The Origin Of Names Of Cities

The United States geological survey has issued a book giving the origin of the names of places. In the volume is recorded the derivation of nearly every city, county and river in the country. Among them are the following of local interest:

Oshkosh—Named for an Indian chief. Name signifies nail, claw or the horny part of the foot of wild beasts.

Suamico—Derived from Indian name signifying yellow sand.

Milwaukee—Derived from the Indian name signifying good ground for good country.

Chicago—Derived from the Ojibway Indian Language. Means place of the bad onion, a root implying a bad smell.

Marinette—Name derived from daughter of Indian chief, Marinette Jacobs. Name is composite of Marie and Antoinette.

Menominee—Named after Indian tribe. Signifies wild rice.

Oconto—Indian name signifying red ground. In the dialect of the Menominee tribe it means place of the pickerel.

Sturgeon Bay—Named from bay which abounds in fish and at one time a great many sturgeon.

Green Bay—The early French called it Le Grande Baie, which was later changed to its present name. Others say that the name came from the deep greenish hue of the waters.

Peshigo—Indian name signifying Wild Goose river.

Escanaba—Indian word meaning flat rock and also other authorities say an Indian name meaning young male quadruped.

PASSES BAD CHECKS

While in this city a few days ago Ross Runyon, a representative of the North American Accident Insurance Company, is said to have passed bogus checks to the amount of $40 on Wm. Forkell, proprietor of Hotel Rhinelander. Runyon is also alleged to have obtained $100 by the same method from J. H. Munsell, agency director of the North American Company at Milwaukee. He has a wife and two children at Denver, Col. Warrants have been issued for his arrest.

LAKE SCENE NEAR RHINELANDER

A Good Christian.

One of those young women who take the world and themselves so seriously that they lapse, at times, into a comatose mental state was in a department store making a small purchase and, as the saleswoman was writing out a slip, proffered a dollar bill.

"What denomination?" inquired the saleswoman, without glancing up.

"Episcopalian," admitted the young woman on the other side of the counter, suddenly brought back to the department store from her mental wandering in other lands.

Surfelled.

"Can't I persuade you to subscribe for a copy of our latest book on north polar exploration?"

"No, sir; you couldn't persuade me to take it as a gift. I spent four years carrying mails in North Dakota, two years driving a cab in Minneapolis, and I've just escaped from Duluth. Got a book on hunting in central Africa?"

Mrs. E. A. Forbes has returned from a visit at her old home, Wayne, Neb.

WORK STARTS ON BIG WAREHOUSE

Rhinelander Produce And Commission Company To Have Large Storage Plant

Work on the construction of the new produce warehouse and cold storage plant of the Rhinelander Commission & Produce Company, on north Thayer street near the Soo depot, was started Wednesday. Messrs E. A. Forbes and C. A. Wikson, who have the contract for the construction, will rush operations as speedily as possible.

The building will be built of solid concrete; will be two stories with dimensions 50x114 feet. It will have a storage capacity of one hundred carloads of potatoes besides a large quantity of produce of all kinds. There will also be a department for storage of heavy groceries.

The Rhinelander Produce and Commission company is wholly a local concern, its members being R. F. Tompkins, B. L. Horr and J. Hess. The company will cater to the wholesale trade only and expects to develop a big business throughout this territory. Potato shipments will be made to all parts of the country.

As soon as the warehouse is completed and the company is safely launched, Mr. Tompkins will resign his present position as agent for the Soo railway company and give his entire time to the management of the business.

Why Do You Worry?

"Why do I worry? Because I cannot help it. You would worry if you were in my place." How many times has this little conversation been repeated, one friend chiding another for the puffed brow and frowning look, the mood of depression and the anxious, wearied, careworn slump of mind and body together, incidental to a habit of worry. True, it is easy to say to one who is overcome by the burdens she is bearing, that worry will make her load no lighter. She knows this, yet while she concedes that worry is doing no good, she goes on as if she were climbing a hill and slipping back at every step or groping through a thick fog, unable to free herself from the smothering clutch of this fiend. Three-fourths of the women patients in a certain insane asylum are said to have reached their morbid estate and the loss of mental balance through the influence of worry. Worry is really waste. It wastes nervous tissue, is the enemy of happiness, and a prolific cause and aggravation of ill health.—Christian Herald.

AND FARMER LOST HIS BET

How Maryland Countryman Proved That He Was Not Ugliest Lad In State.

One of the favorite stories told by the farmers who sell their produce outside Center Market concerns two farmer brothers from somewhere up in Maryland, who are said to be so ugly that whenever they want the wagon backed all they have to do is to stand in front of the team and laugh.

One day the boys were bringing in vegetables in a covered wagon. John was walking and driving and Bill was taking a nap, hidden by the cover. A "gentleman farmer," out for a spin behind his blooded mare, halted the wagon. Knowing that the boys liked a little fun and were not averse to being told that they were ugly, he engaged John in conversation, thinking that he was the only one present.

"John," he said, "I'll bet you are the ugliest boy in the state."

"How much will you bet?" asked John.

"Five dollars."

"I'll bet you up on that," said John. Then turning to the wagon where Bill was concealed and asleep, he yelled:

"Bill! Hey, Bill! Poke yo' head outen them kivers."

Bill did as he was bidden and the "gentleman farmer" handed over the five dollars and drove away without a word.—Washington Star.

To Save Time.

He simply couldn't help it. He was born lazy. As a rule, if not sleepy, he could get through a shave in about 35 minutes. But today, after only 14 hours' sleep, he appeared even more sluggish than ever. As he applied the lather to his customer's beard, his brush lingered haltingly, as though loath to leave the stubby chin to which it was being applied. The customer was a patient man, and stood this for a considerable while. But at last his patience began to ebb, and he interrupted a 40 winks' interval with a cough.

"Sere, lad," he suggested. "Aa've an idea. Haud your hand, keep the brush still, an' Aa'll wag ma' head for ye!"

TERRIBLE DEATH OF WHALER

News of His Drowning While Making a Strike Shows Industry Is Not Dead.

The whaling industry upon which the prosperity of a few New England ports was once founded is supposed to have passed away. No more does the odor of whale oil give peculiar flavor to an entire township. No longer are pompous rectangular mansions pointed out as "whale fortunes." The day is gone when sailors in from three-year voyages spent their shares in a week or two and blithely signed on again for other such terms of danger and toil.

Yet whales are still pursued and the pursuit is not all by steamers with outfits of harpoon guns, patent trying-out vats and safety devices for the boat crews. Word has come in a round-about way to Provincetown, which is on the tip of Cape Cod, that the mate of a whaler, halting from that port, had been drowned while making a strike. He had "fired the iron," had seen "her sink to the hitches," and then had been drawn overboard in a twist of the line. In the excitement of the cast he had made a fatal step into the coil, been caught and in the twinkling of an eye, whipped from the boat. He was never seen again.

It is a frightful way to die, yet we know from the stories they told and the observations they made that the oldtime whalers beheld merit and honor in such a way to death. They said they preferred to die like men in the moment of triumph and high tension than slowly and weakly upon a bed ashore and, since we remember them to have been men, every inch of them, their preference commands respect.

LATEST CURE FOR "NERVES"

Walking Barefoot on the Sands of the Seashore Advised by Medical Specialist.

Walking barefoot on the sands of the sea is the latest cure for nerves, says a well-known medical specialist in this city.

"The good qualities of sea sand, which in many ways, is as health-giving as ozone, have been universally overlooked by holiday makers," he said.

"One of the most soothing and beneficial cures a tired business man can obtain is that of walking barefooted on the sand by the seashore."

"The nerves on the sole and ball of the foot are slightly irritated by the small grains of sand, and, so stimulated, setting up an increased circulation of blood throughout the body."

"Mentally this exercise has a most invigorating effect. The nerves of the feet telegraph to the brain, as it were, how comfortable and refreshed they feel, and the brain responds by feeling comfortable and refreshed too."

"If you do not want to walk barefooted wear shoes—not boots—so that the sand may get in over the tops and at your feet."

"Then there is the soothing notoriety of the sands. The long, flat stretches of yellow sand have a soporific effect on the mind—they induce a feeling of rest and detachment from the worries of the world."

"Some enterprising man also should open hot-sea sand baths at some resort, just as there are mud or earth baths at certain German spas. These baths are very beneficial in cases of rheumatism and neuritis."
